

Tuesday's British news round-up

A SPORTIVE WITH A DIFFERENCE

Looking for a sportive with a difference? Why not try the brand new 24-hour cycling race around the world famous Le Mans circuit in northern France.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 riders are expected to take to the start line of the 24 Heures Velo to compete around the 4.1km Le Mans Bugatti, the shorter version of the circuit used in the Le Mans 24 Hour motor race.

Divided into singles, pairs, or teams of four, six and eight, each team will be ranked according to the longest distance ridden in what looks set to become of France's most popular sportive events.

For further details and to register, please visit www.24heuresvelo.fr/ for more information.

Source: www.cyclingweekly.co.uk
03.02.2009